

blueTunes Releases Widget, New Ways to Share

DURHAM, North Carolina (December 17, 2008) – blueTunes has released a new set of tools aimed at letting users share their music more easily online. Website owners and bloggers are now able to embed a small, lightweight version of the blueTunes player (i.e. “the widget”) in their sites in order to share certain songs and/or playlists online. Also, all users are now able to create public playlists that can be linked to on blueTunes and freely previewed by anyone.
